“Magpie: Methow” by Kris Molesworth

This "monotype" combines painting and printmaking and results in a vivid, painterly original work of art. The piece was inspired by the artist's forays into the Methow Valley and Tieton, Washington, home to large populations of magpies and ravens. Kris Ekstrand Molesworth is a Bay View artist whose work has been featured in solo exhibitions at the Moses Lake Museum and Smith & Vallee Gallery (Edison) during the past year.

The artwork is 21 x 17" and mounted in an archival mat and frame.

Repurposed Chicken Coop

Incoming Trust Board President Brenda Cunningham has constructed and cleverly decorated this coop so those hens will be happily laying eggs for you! This chicken coop is appropriate for up to 3 hens and is made from a dresser. The bottom drawer pulls out for easy cleaning and there is a roosting perch in the 2nd drawer. The roof also comes off for easy transport.

Brenda will deliver within Skagit County and provide chicken care consultation for the 1st year.

“Point Begets Line” by Peregrine O’Gormley

18" x 10" x 5" Bronze limited edition of 9

In Geometry the existence of the point precedes creation of the line. This is evidenced in the natural world as the seed begets shoot; birth begets lifeline; destination begets journey, and a celestial body begets a line of gravitational force with all other celestial bodies. In this piece, the prey begets the predator's trajectory and purpose.

Eddyline Kayak - Skylark

Length: 12' | Beam: 26" | Weight:
41 lbs | Cockpit Size: 35" x 18.5" |
Capacity: 295 lbs | Stability: High

While essentially a recreational kayak in size and fit, the Skylark has been endowed with much more consideration to the features and performance found in a full-fledged sea kayak. It has abundant stability and a roomy fit to make the entry-level paddler comfortable, yet the efficiency to keep up with longer boats on an easy cruise.

This kayak is attractive to beginners and one that they can grow in, yet also provides a lightweight and fun alternative to the more experienced paddler.
